Futhey speaks on merger process, Obama support, improved finances

“I will not stand down, I will not retreat and I will not surrender until our members have the right to vote on their own constitution,” UTU International President Mike Futhey said at a regional meeting in Denver in explaining his position on the court-sidetracked merger with the Sheet Metal Workers International Association (SMWIA).

In his first state of the union address since taking office Jan. 1, Futhey said the finances of the UTU, the UTUIA and the Discipline Income Protection Plan (DIPP) are showing improvement owing to internal cost cutting and new efficiencies, increased revenue and less aggressive disciplinary actions by carriers.

Futhey pledged to devote every resource at the UTU’s disposal to assuring the November election of Barack Obama and other labor-friendly candidates.

In regard to the SMWIA merger – currently halted by a federal court-imposed preliminary injunction (see “Merger injunction” at right) – Futhey said he never opposed the merger. In fact, he voted for it.

But after learning that the “merger promised” wasn’t the merger to be delivered, Futhey demanded – as the federal court subsequently suggested – that a merged-union constitution be written and submitted to the UTU membership for approval.

“I was all for the merger that promised craft and general committee autonomy,” Futhey said. Then, before taking office, Futhey heard former UTU President Paul Thompson tell a UTU gathering that an intent of the merger was to subvert union democracy and “get accomplished what couldn’t be accomplished through democratic procedures” – specifically, an end to the UTU’s long and cherished craft and general committee autonomy.

At that point, Futhey said, he realized that he, and all other UTU members, had been misled –

Member killed on job

Local 1000 (Minneapolis) member Jerome “Jerry” Bour Jr, was killed in an incident Thursday, July 10, at the BNSF’s Northtown Yard in Minneapolis. He was 40 years old and lived in St. Paul. Bour worked 11 years for the BNSF as a switchman and conductor. “He will be dearly missed by all,” Condolences to the Bour family, Minnesota State Legislative Director Phil Quayl said.

Merger injunction

AKRON, Ohio – A preliminary injunction was issued June 26 by a federal district court here against a merger between the United Transportation Union and the Sheet Metal Workers International Association (SMWIA) that would have created the International Association of Sheet Metal, Air, Rail and Transportation (SMART) Workers.

The preliminary injunction, issued by Federal Judge John R. Adams, means the merger may not be consummated pending conclusion of the case, including any appeals. Judge Adams previously issued a temporary restraining order, which now has been replaced by the preliminary injunction.

The merger challenge was brought by four UTU rank-and-file members that the UTU membership had not been given a constitution for the proposed merged union.

The result, said the plaintiffs, is that the UTU membership was not aware of conflicts between the existing UTU constitution and the SMWIA constitution.

UTU International President Mike Futhey said, “This confirms my view that if the merger should proceed, it should be the merger promised members, and all conflicts should be resolved in a SMART constitution prior to submission to the members for ratification.”

Obama pledges support

Presumptive Democratic presidential candidate Barack Obama has reached out to UTU members, assuring them of his support on issues with paycheck relevance for railroad and transit workers.

In a personal letter to International President Mike Futhey, Obama thanked the UTU for its endorsement, promising he will not let UTU members down.

Obama promised to “preserve and promote policies that recognize the value of transportation workers. “I will preserve the sanctity of Railroad Retirement and the Federal Employers’ Liability Act (FELA), and push for a fair process to receive and maintain a commercial driver’s license,” Obama wrote. “My administration will push for Amtrak, commuter rail and public transit system funding, ensuring strong employment levels well into the future. “I am proud to stand with UTU in our joint efforts to build an America that values the labor of every American and rewards it with a few basic guarantees: wages that can raise a family, health care if we get sick, and a retirement that’s dignified,” Obama wrote.

In reading Obama’s letter at the Denver regional meeting, Assistant President Arti Martin said, “Every day, in every location in the nation, there is an issue that threatens our way of life as working families.

“Having a friend in the White House means we have a say in who runs the FRA,” Martin said.

“It also means we have a say in who is appointed to the National Mediation Board and the National Labor Relations Board, and who chairs the Surface Transportation Board, which rules on railroad mergers and labor protections,” Martin said.

Marrin said that “a vote for Obama in November is a vote for better paychecks, better benefits, better working conditions and better family security.”

“The Route of the Dashing Commuter,” the Long Island Rail Road is North America’s busiest commuter railroad, operating 24/7 and carrying some 288,000 passengers daily on 728 trains serving 124 stations.

The LIRR’s hub-and-spoke system, with all but one of 11 branches radiating out of Jamaica, N.Y., is the template for the airlines’ hub-and-spoke system.

Chartered in 1834, the LIRR is America’s oldest railroad operating under its original name. Once owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the LIRR was acquired in 1966 by the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

The LIRR’s 700 miles of track stretch between Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan and Montauk on Long Island’s eastern tip – 120 miles.

Listen to the voice of reason: Al Chesser

At age 94, his powerful, penetrating speaking voice still dominates a crowded theater, his memory remains near perfect, and his signature oath, “lower than a snake’s belly in a wagon rut,” has not been abandoned.

For sure, former UTU President Al Chesser remains a guiding spirit and conscience of the union he led as president from 1971 to 1980, and served as first national legislative director.

After I invited Al to the luncheon podium at our regional meeting in Denver July 8, Al wasted precious little time shaming anti-union right-wing politicians – “lower than a snake’s belly in a wagon rut,” he called them – and urging a vote in November for Barack Obama and other union-friendly candidates.

“We may be facing the most important election of our time,” Al told more than 220 or our members in attendance. “I’ve never seen our country in the shape it is in, and I’m epidemic of home foreclosures, and growing economic pessimism among America’s middle class as a reason to embrace change.

Today, we have government by the corporations, for the corporations and of the corporations,” Al said. He urged union members to vote their paychecks in November and avoid any sirens from John McCain, whom Al characterized as someone given to outbursts of temper and unable to maintain a position or deliver on a promise.

“We have to look at our own pocketbooks” when voting, Al said. “Yes, we have friends in the Republican Party, but the right-wing has put a knife in our backs.

“We have a choice” in November, Al said. “We can vote for the right-winger, John McCain, or for Barack Obama, who represents what you and I have fought for all our lives.

“Hasn’t the labor movement had enough of George Bush?” Al asked rhetorically, in linking McCain to Bush. “Barack Obama pulled himself up by his bootstraps. He is a man for the people,” Al said.

Al also read from the letter Obama sent to the union: “I am proud to stand with UTU in our joint efforts to build an America that values the labor of every American and rewards it with a few basic guarantees – wages that can raise a family, health care if we get sick, and a retirement that’s dignified,” are Obama’s words.

Al correctly observed, “John McCain would never say, ‘I’ll stand with labor.’ Honor him for his military service, but we have military heroes in the Democratic Party, also,” Al said, concluding: “I ask you, I plead with you, to join me and many of the other labor leaders and union members and vote for Barack Obama for president. We can make a difference.”

49 years old – and I’ll soon be a senior citizen.”

Al cited growing unemployment, soaring energy and food costs, lost pensions, 47 million Americans without health-care insurance, an

Be sure to vote, no matter what

Instead of focusing on a candidate’s record, this campaign has descended into false allegations that are repeated over and over so that some uninformed people believe them.

Electoral Day grows closer. UTU does not want to tell you how to vote. It only recommends and endorses candidates.

No matter how you exercise that right, no matter whose recommendation or endorsement you take to heart when making that decision, a couple of things come first.

You must be registered to vote. The registration requirements vary from state to state but if you are not registered yet, time is running out. Many UTU members work very difficult schedules – they have little or no control over the hours that they work.

Please make the effort to find out if you can vote early or how to vote by absentee ballot.

I believe we all learned in 2000 that every vote counts. A small number of votes can literally make the difference between war and peace, between a good economy and a recession.

More important than how you vote is that you participate. Many U.S. soldiers have died all over the world so that you can exercise that right.

Many people around the world thirst for that right.

You will see a non-stop blizzard 24 hours a day, seven days a week on several channels, with information about the elections and the candidates; information from sources too numerous even to think about.

The Internet and e-mail are wonderful. However, the difference between the Internet and mainstream reporting is no one has to stand behind the story. It is extremely disappointing that lies about both candidates have been forwarded millions of times.

Instead of focusing on a candidate’s record, this campaign has descended into false allegations that are repeated over and over so that some uninformed people believe them.

One candidate has been attacked about his religion. He has been called a Muslim when in fact he is a Christian. Does it really matter? Haven’t we gone beyond worrying about a candidate’s sex, religion or race?

I thought we had settled the question about religion when John Kennedy was elected. Remember he was the first Catholic to be elected President. Then Joseph Lieberman in 2000 became the first Jewish person to ever be nominated in a major party ticket.

There are those, however, who want to use a candidate’s personal faith as a wedge issue against them so that the other candidate can win. One candidate was prisoner of war in Hanoi for half a dozen years, carrying out his patriotic duty. But this condition is being used against him, alluding to his mental health. How in the name of excellent health, that candidate is being painted as too old.

How a UTU member votes is his or her own business. But make sure when you make your decision how to vote, that you are voting using the facts to make your decision.

Wouldn’t it be a tragedy if the wrong person got elected because faceless liars have found a way to put slime, filth and lies in a high-tech form? But don’t forget to register and don’t forget to vote.

Bus Department

First-half score: Many hits, but there is more to play

UTU-represented bus operators and mechanics can take great pride in their accomplishments the first half of 2008, but there remain many hurdles to overcome.

The final DOT rule on drug and alcohol testing for holders of a common carrier’s operating CDL goes into effect Aug. 25. DOT ordered that all specimens be tested for validity, which means adulterants and urine substitutes. Also, observed collections will now be required, rather than be an option, for all post-accident testing.

 Holders of CDLs and commercial learner permits (CLPs) face many tougher rules, and the UTLU will be there every step of the way to protect the rights of its bus members.

We will have numerous contracts to negotiate before the end of the year, and there also are many pending arbitration cases. This office has an open-door policy: Any UTU officer is encouraged to call my office for assistance anytime.

Thanks go out to Alternate Vice President-East Rich Deier for his excellent handling of the TM&O merger and acquisition by Greyhound. Brother Deier negotiated rights for our former members, which included dovetailed seniority, benefit protections and additional work assignments, ensuring important protections as part of their movement into the Amalgamated Transit Union.

It is good news to see reports of sharp increases in bus ridership across America as soaring gasoline prices force a shift from automobiles to public transportation. The bad news is that transit agencies are saying they cannot dramatically increase bus service anytime soon because of rising fuel costs.

The UTLU is urging all levels of government to increase spending on public transportation.

Bus operators in Santa Cruz, Santa Monica ratify pacts

UTU-represented bus operators employed by both the Santa Cruz (Calif.) Metropolitan Transit District and Santa Monica (Calif.) Municipal Transit have ratified new contracts.

General Chairperson Bonnie Morris said the three-year agreement with the Santa Cruz system provides members of Local 23 with pay raises over each of the three years covered by the contract, plus includes improvements in health-care insurance and retirement benefits, which translate to “more money in the members’ pockets.”

Receiving praise from Morris, who led the negotiating team, are Local 23 officers Sandra Lipperd, James Taylor, Steve Prince and Eduardo Montesino.

“For our committee, this was a very difficult process,” Morris said. Three years ago, Local 23 members achieved a new agreement only after a 37-day strike. “We persevered this round with help from the community and lawmakers.

“This agreement fixes a long-time level of unfair and unequal treatment between other represented units at this Transit District,” Morris said.

The more than 150 UTLU-represented drivers in Santa Monica are all members of Local 1785, Santa Monica.

The new contract includes wage increases; a hike in pension benefits; a company-paid long-term disability insurance policy; increases in vacation time for some members; a sick-pay cash-out policy; improvements in work rules; increased overtime protections, and enhancements in contract-enforcement provisions.

“I think it’s one of the finest contracts in the transit industry today,” said Vice President Vic Baffoni, who assisted the negotiating committee.

Members of the negotiating committee were General Chairperson Adhi Reddy; Vice General Chairperson Jabrion Donald, and former Vice General Chairperson Martin Guerrero.

“I also want to thank Local President Ken Johnson for his support of the efforts of the negotiating committee,” Baffoni said.

Herman Shirley helps prisoners

Herman Shirley is a shining example of the saying, “Treat others as you would like to be treated.”

Every week, Shirley, 88, a retired switchman off the Houston Belt and Terminal and member of Local 1524 in Houston, treats some 600 prisoners with a little respect in the hopes he will never see them again.

Sadly, that’s not often the case.

For the past six years Shirley has volunteered at the Walls Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville. This is where prisoners who have served time in some of the 10 prisons within a 20-mile radius of Huntsville are released.

The facility processes 600 to 700 prisoners a week, sometimes more than 150 per day, according to Shirley.

Shirley began ministering to the less fortunate as a way to give them a fresh start in life. “We have a team that talks to the prisoners, and their families if any of them have a cell phone, before they are released,” he said. “We talk to the families and give them information about how they should treat those being set free, what to expect, where to get more help if they need it, that kind of thing.

“We also talk to the prisoners and try to explain what life will be like on the outside. Some of them don’t even know what a cell phone is. We give them all sorts of information in the hopes they won’t come back. But about 60 percent of them do. Sometimes it seems like they go out the front door and come right back in through the back door.”

“I just love (volunteering with prisoners) better than anything. If I can help anybody, I will. If what I do helps somebody in any way, that’s what I want to do. I feel good doing it,” he said.

Railroad Retirement credits due Armed Services veterans

Many railroad employees have served in the Armed Forces. Under certain conditions, military service may be credited as railroad service under the Railroad Retirement Act.

The intent is to prevent career railroad employees from losing retirement credits while performing active duty military service during a war or national emergency period.

To be credited as railroad service, active duty service must be preceded by railroad service in the same or preceding calendar year.

With some exceptions, the employee must also have entered active military service when the United States was at war or in a state of national emergency or when he has served in the Armed Forces involuntarily. Military service is involuntary when an employee is required by law, such as a reserve call-up from a reserve unit, to leave railroad service.

Any military service a reservist was required to perform as a result of a call-up, such as during the current partial mobilization, would be creditable, so long as the military service was preceded by railroad service in the same or preceding year.

Under certain conditions, training duty as a member of a reserve component of a uniformed service is also considered active duty.

Former GC Will, SLD Boudreaux pass

Former Western Maryland Railway (now CSX) General Chairman Robert J. Will and retired Louisiana State Legislative Director Tyrone Boudreaux have passed away.

Will passed away July 13. He had been a member of Local 1881, Baltimore, Boudreaux passed away June 6 after succumbing to cancer. He was a member of Local 1836, New Orleans.

Will was a delegate to UTU conventions in active duty in a state National Guard or state Air National Guard unit may be creditable only while the reservist was called to federal active duty by the Congress or president. Emergency call-up of the National Guard by a governor for riot or flood control would not be creditable.

The dates of the creditable war and national emergency periods that affect current retirements are: Sept. 8, 1939, to June 14, 1945; Dec. 16, 1950, to Sept. 14, 1978, and Aug. 2, 1990, to a date as yet undetermined.

Railroad employees should file Form 214 in proof of military service well in advance of retirement to expedite the annuity application process. Military discharge papers (DD Form 214) can be submitted in proof. If employees do not have an official record of their military service, their local RRB office will confirm how to obtain acceptable evidence.

For more information about the crediting of military service, contact the nearest office of the Railroad Retirement Board. You may find the address and phone number of an RRB office by calling the automated toll-free RRB Help Line at (800) 808-0772, or visiting www.rrb.gov.

Arbitration to decide remote-control fight

A federal district court in Ohio ordered arbitration to determine if CSX violated a collective bargaining agreement with the UTU by entering into a separate agreement with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Trainmen that permit BLET engineers to operate remote controlled locomotives outside existing terminal limits.

The dispute was stayed by the court as a minor under the Railway Labor Act and requiring binding arbitration, involves a January 2007 CSX-BLET agreement the UTU says conflicts with a 2002 remote control agreement between the UTU and the nation’s major railroads.

That ratified 2002 agreement provided that the scope of work ut by UTU-represented conductors extends to remote control operations “including but not limited to, yard engines, road switchers, local’s and other comparable assignments.”

Although an arbitrator subsequently ruled that language to be valid and enforceable, the court noted that the arbitrator “deliberately limited his interpretation to remote control technology operated within terminal limits,” resulting in the court’s ruling to arbitrate.

UTU and CSX representatives will be meeting to agree on the mechanics of the arbitration process and selection of arbitrators.

Arbitrators to rule on FMLA application

An arbitration panel will determine whether the carriers’ application of the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), under which rail carriers are requiring employees to substitute paid vacation and/or paid personal leave for unpaid leave provided by the FMLA, violates contractual agreements with the UTU.

BNSF, CSX, NS and UP agreed with major rail unions, including the UTU, to arbitrate the issue, nationally, before a special board of adjustment pursuant to the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

The arbitration will be presented to the three-person special board — all neutrals — is: “Do the carriers’ policies requiring employees to substitute paid vacation and/or paid personal leave for unpaid FMLA leave violate requirements of the national vacation and their contractual personal leave agreements?”

Under the FMLA, employees may elect to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave to deal with a family emergency, or a personal serious health condition. The law also provides that employees with more than one employer may have agreements with their employers, the more beneficial arrangement will take precedence.

The UTU and other labor organizations contend that that national vacation and/or personal leave agreements should not be upset by the FMLA and that unpaid FMLA leave should be granted without employees having to substitute paid vacation and/or paid personal leave for unpaid FMLA leave.

Chief among the UTU successes in 2008 is a ratified and signed national rail contract reached by the negotiating team “that is superior to the agreement the BLET got for its members.

“We know workers can do better and we are proving it every day on behalf of our members,” Furthey said, pointing to the UTU’s ramp-up of organizing efforts.

By training UTU field representatives in organizing, the UTU added 13 new organizers without increasing costs, Furthey said. “Whether it is eight new members in Alabama, or 800 new members in Orange County, California, we are going to organize them and represent them.”

The agreement includes immediate wage increases and bonuses.

“Our main objective was a quality-of-life proposal for road crews, which we achieved,” said Assistant President Armus Armstrong, who was in negotiations since Section 6 notices were served.

“We achieved 12 days of availability with a guaranteed four days off,” Martin said.

The negotiating team was led by General Chairperson Phil Craig and Local 64 Chairperson Tom Behsman.

“Members should be very proud of these brothers, whose patience and determination produced this agreement,” Martin said.

“The management of this railroad tried every tactic to bust the resolve of our negotiating team and membership, but they couldn’t bust UTU solidarity.”

DM&E, which is in the process of being acquired by Canadian Pacific for some $1.5 billion, operates some 1,100 miles of track across South Dakota and southern Minnesota, and extends into Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming.

Soo Line, DM&E members hammer out agreements

UTU-represented men on both the Canadian Pacific’s Soo Line subsidiary and the Dakota, Minnesota & Eastern Railway have reached tentative agreements with their employers.

The deal on the Soo Line covers wages, rules and working conditions affecting Soo Line conductors, brakemen, switchmen, firemen and hostlers.

The agreement is retroactive to July 2005, and extends through December 2009, and largely mirrors the national rail agreement recently ratified by UTU members employed by BNSF, CSX, Kansas City Southern, Norfolk Southern, Union Pacific and numerous smaller railroads.

A difference is that the Soo Line agreement provides for entry rates to reach 100 percent wage parity within three years. Soo Line also will implement an automated yard-job selection process, which General Chairperson James Nelson, will create additional UTU jobs and give the UTU a voice in further development and enhancement of the process. A Long Island Rail Road conductor and UTU member, alerted by passengers to cries for help near the tracks, stopped the alleged sexual assault of a woman in broad daylight at the Freeport, N.Y., station last month.

Assistant conductor Eugene Chino, a member of Local 645 in Babylon, N.Y., said a female passenger told him she heard a child crying near the end of the platform when the train was stopped at 4:11 p.m. July 2.

Chino, 42, went down to track level to try to find the child but instead found a woman screaming “Help me! Help me! Stop!” He ran and tackled her just a few feet from the electrified – and deadly – third rail.

“It was shocking, scary, frightening and something that’s unacceptable,” Chino said at a news conference. He said he told the attacker to stop, and the man turned to him and seemed confused.

“He was in shock. He looked at me like he was in another area of his thought process,” said Chino, who has worked for the railroad for six years.

Chino alerted MTA police, who nabbed the alleged assailant, David Thornton, 48, of Island Park.

The 28-year-old woman, whose identity was not disclosed, suffered bruises to her neck, back and shoulder. Thornton allegedly assaulted her on the rocks in between the two sets of tracks shielded by the cement housing for the platform staircase, officials said.

Metropolitan Transportation Authority police said the attack occurred around 4:15 p.m. near the edge of the platform closer to the eastbound tracks, shielded from riders. Police said they didn’t know how Thornton lured the victim to the tracks.

MTA officials Kevin Smith and Michelle Russo were at the station responding to a suspicious package call when Chino alerted them of the attack. Smith said the victim suffered anxiety and seemed shaken up.

“She hugged me. She wouldn’t let go,” Smith told Newsday. The victim was taken to Nassau University Medical Center, police said.

The victim didn’t know Thornton and he didn’t use a weapon in the alleged assault, according to police. Thornton was held on $500,000 cash bail or $250,000 bond.

Newly issued cell phones kept lines of communication open between Chino and fellow crew members, including collector Loraine Martinez and engineer Brian Zaderecki. Chino notified Martinez of the situation, while Martinez called Zaderecki and told him to hold the train at the station.

(Martinez is also a member of Local 645.)

UTU General Chairperson Anthony Simon also offered praise. “I could not be prouder of our members, but their actions do not surprise me,” Simon said. “LIRR crew members come in every day and do their job without much fanfare. The LIRR crew members at Freeport did not flinch when they heard a cry for help and were able to stop an attack in progress. The victim could have suffered even more traumatic injury if not for their quick action.”

Adirondack members ratify pacts

Workers employed by Adirondack Trailways and Port Ticket Sales, all members of Local 1582 in Albany, N.Y., have successfully completed negotiations for four separate contracts, General Chairperson Russell Gaillard told Newsday.

The contracts cover about 150 bus drivers, ticket agents, maintenance personnel and baggage personnel.

“All contracts provide increases in wages plus improvements in the company’s matching for 401(k) pension plans, as well as improvements in our health-care plans, increases in our sick-time allotment and uniform allowances,” Gaillard said.

Gaillard praised Vice General Chairperson and Local President Wesley Wold, Bill Henning III, Thomas Broadhead, Jane Kelly and Sarah Wellington for their hard work during negotiations.

The UTU International Staff: Here to Serve You

Christine Martin

Christine Martin started with the UTU in 1976 (“I was 12!”) in the Accounting Department “issuing expense checks on machines that don’t exist anymore.” During her years working in the Accounting Department she handled many jobs, including paying insurance commissions and payroll. She was promoted to the Investment Department then moved over to the Billing/Audit Department about 10 years ago. Chris oversees the billings for about 120 locals, including all Canadian locals. I mostly deal with local treasurers, by phone or e-mail,” she said. “They are usually asking, ‘How do I do this or how do I do that?’ And I always try to help them. It keeps us very busy.”

David Majher

David Majher serves the union and its members as a Supply Department representative. He started with the UTU in 1999 as a sales and marketing representative for the SupplyUIA, then moved to the Supply Department in 2007. If local union needs supplies, be it envelopes, letterhead or forms, Dave can handle the request. He also takes care of supplies for the UTU office. A major part of Dave’s job is handling incoming and outgoing mail and parcels.

“Working in the Supply Department is sort of like being on a ship: You can have smooth sailing and then the waves hit and all hell breaks loose!”

Translation: It can get real busy, real quick,” Dave said.

Terri Hatchcock

Terri Hatchcock serves the UTU membership as a claims adjuster and accounting representative in the Accounting Department. She started with the union in 1993 in the Claims Department and has held a variety of jobs. “I pay the expenses of the UTU International offices, general commit- tee members and state legislative boards,” she said. “I also prepare and distribute changes in dues assessments for general committee and legislative boards. I also record and deposit miscellaneous receipts, and back up the payroll desk when needed. I also receive the bulk of calls in the Accounting Department and enjoy hearing from members out in the field. It keeps me pretty busy.”

Meet your UTU Designated Legal Counsel

There is no more dangerous work environment than on the railroads, where injuries too often are severe. The Federal Employers’ Liability Act (FELA) makes railroads accountable for unsafe working conditions. Railroads retain skilled attorneys to protect their interests. You also have access to skilled and experienced attorneys who understand the railroad industry, its safety hazards, and every aspect of the FELA. They are the UTU Designated Legal Counsel, chosen for their special knowledge and experience. Their job is to represent you. This continuing column introduces you to all of the UTU Designated Legal Counsel. For a complete listing, go to the UTU home page at www.utu.org and click on the blue tile, “Designated Legal Counsel.”

“J had had this injury would turn out to be as serious as it is, I would have done things differently. As a UTU Designated Legal Counsel, I hear injured employees say that all too frequently. Too many injured employees fail to take advantage of this union benefit: UTU Designated Legal Counsel. Remember to contact a DLC for a free consultation immediately after an on-duty injury.”

“Congress, in enacting FELA, recognized the significant dangers of working for the railroad and established laws to protect injured workers. Our DLCs are selected because they are uniquely qualified to handle railroad work-related injuries due to their vast knowledge and experience with FELA.”

On the right is the old Los Angeles County jail building and in the background are the Glendale Mountains.”

Members ratify national rail pact

Having been ratified by the highest margin in UTU history, a new national rail contract was formally signed July 1 in Washington, D.C., by UTU International President Mike Futhey and the railroads’ chief negotiator.

The agreement, retroactive to Jan. 1, 2005, and extending through Dec. 31, 2009, required more than 38 months of difficult negotiations with the National Carriers’ Conference Committee, which represents BNNSF, CSX, Kansas City Southern, Norfolk Southern, Union Pacific and numerous smaller railroads party to the agreement.

It covers conductors, brakemen, engineers, firemen, hostlers, switchmen and yardmen. Yardmasters voted separately on an agreement—similar in most respects to the national agreement covering all other UTU crafts—and it also was ratified by a record margin.

The contracts provide for:

• A 17-percent general wage increase over its life;
• Retroactive pay. By agreement, the carriers will make all reasonable efforts to pay the retroactive portion of the general wage increase as soon as possible, and no later than within 60 days;
• No change in work rules;
• An increase in the meal allowance;
• A cap on health-care contributions, with no reduction in health-care benefits;

• New hires to gain (effective Jan. 1, 2010) a reduction in the waiting period to 30 days, from 120 days, for health-care coverage;
