A victory achieved in the House

By Jeremy Ferguson

Brothers and sisters,

In chemistry, there’s a procedure called a litmus test where a piece of treated paper is dipped in a liquid solution to reveal what the nature of that liquid is. If the paper turns color, the mixture is either acidic or basic. If it doesn’t turn color, the mixture is neutral.

Many years of meeting with legislators discussing the issues of transportation workers — operator safety, crew size, the degree (or lack of) federal oversight — and the actions of the current presidential administration have laid the foundation for our own litmus test of sorts.

We have a bill — the Moving Forward Act — that replaces and improves upon a prior surface transportation funding bill called the FAST Act. Through the diligent work of our National Legislative Department, this important legislation has passed the U.S. House of Representatives.

COVID-19: THOSE WHOM WE HAVE LOST

At the time of this newspaper’s publication, SMART-TD offices had received a number of reports of active members/retirees who had passed away due to the coronavirus. They will not be forgotten.

Joseph Hansen, pictured above with his grandchildren, a conductor out of Local 60 (Newark, N.J.) worked for New Jersey Transit (NJT), and had been a SMART-TD member since November 1999. He died April 7 at age 62 from COVID-19.

Brother Stephen McFadden, 51, of Philadelphia, and a Southeastern Pennsylvania Transit Authority (SEPTA) conductor, died April 30 from COVID-19. He had been a member of the union since September 1991.

Brother Michael A. Hill, pictured above with Local 61 Legislative Representative Nichelle Miles, was a 30-year member of SMART-TD and worked for the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transit Authority (SEPTA). He died of COVID-19.

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Unfortunately, due to the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, including the state of Ohio’s orders regarding distancing and meetings, we have had to cancel the 2020 SMART Transportation Division Regional Meeting.

Accordingly, please disregard the registration information printed in the February/March SMART Transportation Division News. That particular edition of the union newspaper was published and distributed prior to the decision to cancel.

For anyone who had already registered, a refund of the registration fees was made. Those who had registered electronically would have had a full refund auto-

Demetrios Vatistas, secretary and treasurer for SMART Transportation Division Local 281 (Milwaukee, Wis.), discussed working as a Metra conductor during the coronavirus pandemic with a Chicago-area newspaper.

Vatistas has been S&T for his local since February 2019 and a TD member since 1997.

“T’ve been doing this for 24 years, and I’ve never seen anything like this,” Vatistas told Daily Herald of Arlington Heights, Ill., since 1997.

“We had the opportunity to speak with Judge Hidalgo about our current working environment with the carriers,” said local S&T Robert Maldonado. “I spoke about our current contract negotiations and the carriers working to eliminate working personnel on trains and what we, collectively, are fighting for.”

Also discussed were Houston and Harris County’s status as “high threat urban areas” as rails crisscrossing to eliminate working personnel on trains and what we, collectively, are fighting for.

Another piece of news submitted by S&T Maldonado: Local 1892’s Daniel Sitchler retired after 20 years of service. He worked an RCO trim job at Englewood Yard in Houston for the Union Pacific Railroad and was a member of the union for his whole career. SMART-TD wishes Brother Sitchler a long, happy and healthy retirement.

Local 1892, Houston, Texas

Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, members attended a meet-and-greet with Harris County Judge Lima Hidalgo organized by the Gulf Coast Area Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

“On these trains, blocking crossings for long periods of time and putting the safety of employees, the public and communities in peril, with dangerous chemicals on these trains, blocking crossings for long periods of time and putting the safety of employees, the public and communities in peril,” Vatistas said.

“We were able to spread this message to about 75 union labor leaders in attendance,” Maldonado said. “Judge Hidalgo encouraged us to stay in contact.”

“We are SMART-TD PROUD, and our intent was to help as many families as we can by this donation, with more to come.”

Social-distancing protocols were indeed followed as food and a check for $300 were donated by Local 891 members to the North Valley Food Bank in May. A large number of food items and other goods were also collected.

Vatistas said that new bonds are being formed, albeit at a safe social distance. “I see concern, but I also see compassion,” Vatistas told Pyke.

Local Chairpersons J.B. Johnson, Ryan Hedgecock and others led a food drive for North Valley Food Bank in Whitefish.

“We are proud to be moving America’s much-needed supplies through these trying times,” the local’s leaders said. “Our members are working hard to help those in need who are less fortunate. “We are SMART-TD side-by-side. This is our family away from home.”

But there is a sense of anxiety when reporting for and performing service these days, especially when boarding what can only be described as ghost trains, Vatistas said.

Metrariderhood had fallen a staggering 97% since a stay-at-home order was enacted by Illinois’ governor in March, but Vatistas said that new bonds are being formed, albeit at a safe social distance. “I see concern, but I also see compassion,” Vatistas told Pyke.

Retiree Sam Andrews has authored “Trackside At The Mill 1991-1998,” which centers at the former Santa Fe hub of Newton, Kan., and covers how the railroad served the large Cargill flour mill, which turned 100 years-old in 2018. How Santa Fe/BNSF switched the mill, the type of flour Cargill made, who bought the product and where the loads went are included as a history of changes to the milling and railroad industries.

Railroads such as the ATSF, MP, UP, SP, BNSF and Amtrak that ran through Newton are discussed.

“This can be classified as a book dealing with the decline of small-town America,” Andrews said. “Just about everything of detail has now become obsolete to history.”

Anyone with an interest of railroad history and those carriers that have been merged away will find this soft-cover, 125-page book a worthwhile read, Andrews said.

To purchase a copy, send a check or money order of $20 post-paid to Sam Andrews, 1201 W 27th St. N., Wichita, KS 67204 or you can email Brother Andrews at sbkrmn@cox.net.

Fundraiser established for member hurt in Louisiana roadside accident

Dustin R. Wyatt, most recently a member of Local 1574 (Portland, Ore.), was injured May 18 in a roadside collision near New Orleans, La., as he stopped to provide roadside assistance during an automobile crash.

The 31-year-old husband and father of two was left in critical condition after he was struck in a second collision and hurled 50 feet down from a bridge into a marshy area, breaking multiple bones.

His condition has improved and he continues to recover at home. An online fundraiser has been established to assist with his medical costs.

“It is truly a miracle that he has survived,” his wife, Samantha Wyatt, wrote in a message on a GoFundMe post. “We have been faced with an event that will change Dustin’s life forever, threatening the career he has worked so hard for and many other goals in the future that he had his eye on.”

Brother Wyatt has been a member since November 2018 and works as a trainman/brakeman for Union Pacific. He and his family had recently moved from Washington state to Lafayette, La. He was in the process of transferring into a new home local.

“Please help donate to the cause. All money will be used for medical bills and rehabilitation,” Samantha Wyatt wrote. The URL is www.gofundme.com/ff7c4qk-medical-fund-for-dustin.

RR safety waivers extended

The Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) extended safety waivers to the Association of American Railroads (AAR) and the American Short Line and Regional Railroad Association (ASLRRA) in the early stages of the coronavirus pandemic recently, again favoring the material concerns of carriers over the safety of America’s rail workers and of the general public.

The extension runs until the earlier of when the emergency declaration is lifted, or 60 days from letters dated May 21 to the AAR and ASLRRA by the agency governing safety on America’s railroads.

The broad waivers concerning numerous safety regulations and training requirements were initially set to expire in May and June.

The leaders of SMART-TD and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Trainmen objected to the lengthening of these waivers that they had described as “alarming” when first initiated.

“The agency continues a pattern of FRA appeasement to the carriers,” said SMART-TD President Jeremy R. Ferguson.

“Essential safety tasks once again are being deferred with regulators’ blessings while the agency could not be bothered to enact an emergency order to hold carriers accountable to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.”

Brothers and sisters,

The last few months have been some of the most challenging times facing working families in recent history. It did not have to be this way. Unlike the response from many U.S. allies around the world, the Trump Administration was slow to acknowledge and respond to what it knew would be a pandemic coming to our shores. The administration has clearly demonstrated a lack of leadership and, in some cases, effectively gone missing as crisis after crisis confronted the nation. Today, we look back at six long months which saw a virus take the lives of 120,000 Americans. The slow federal response contributed to further pain, as over 2.4 million have now contracted the virus in the United States alone.

To put it into perspective, the Americans we have lost equals the number of Americans lost during WWII. This is not insignificant; each person represents a family that suffers the loss of a loved one and aunsettled grieving process.

The slow response also is reflected in the lack of priority given to the safety and well-being of frontline essential workers who have kept America running during this tragic pandemic. Nothing exemplifies this more than the Trump Administration’s response to our safety, as shown with its quick approval of a relaxation of safety standards for U.S. railroads in April. This put the health and livelihood of every railroader and their families in jeopardy — with the same lack of attention to safety also affecting bus and transit operators as well, all in service to the profits and operations of the carriers. This is unacceptable under any circumstance, made further egregious by the presence of a pandemic.

This disregard for the health and well-being of working families is not just contained to the railroads. Unemployment payments for millions across the United States were delayed or the systems crashed, as seen in Florida, where little effort was placed on the needs of working families by conservative politicians in that state. Stimulus checks to families in need were delayed and, in many cases, not enough. At the same time, Wall Street was able to cash in on trillions of stimu-

The pain and suffering across our nation has not ended.

As I write this, protests continue in the United States. We have seen clashes that have turned ugly and violent. SMART stands in sympathy with the family of George Floyd and all those who tragically lost their lives. We stand united with those who are committed to peaceful struggle towards racial equality for all. And we equally stand against those who uphold racism, bigotry and violence.

At a time of multiple national crises, American leadership is gravely lacking, as the president of the United States chooses to divide and inflame tensions to serve his personal ambitions and re-election, rather than lead an anxious nation.

In four months, we can change the situation. I strongly urge every member to apply for mail-in ballots wherever you live. Sign up for text alerts by texting SMART to 21333 (message and data rates may apply). We will provide you with voting information in your state and connect you with resources to apply for absentee ballots and mail-in voting. With uncertainty factives. It makes two people on freight crews required nationally. It protects bus operators from assault. It funds Amtrak, reeling from the coronavirus, so that the nation continues to have passenger service and the jobs and economic benefits that come with it.

All of the details about this bill are widely available through our website and elsewhere.

We've worked many years on these issues AND this has now cleared the U.S. House of Representatives through your concerted effort and outreach. This is a victory that has never been achieved in the more than eight years we've attempted to get a federal law passed and it is your unity and focus that made it possible!

So one component of this test is already clear: Democrats in the House were responsible for including those provisions that we worked hard to have included in the bill. They were the ones who fought for — now or in the future — accountable on Election Day against us and our continued safety and well-beings.

What happens to the bill in the Senate remains to be seen, but the Republican leader has called it “nonsense” and has vowed to kill it.

And while this legislation provides a litmus test of Congress, we don’t need one for the president.

We've already seen what his attitude toward our membership is through the conduct of his Transportation Secretyary and hand-picked Federal Railroad Administrator. These are the agency leaders who have said that two people on a freight crew has no effect on safety, who haven’t extensive-young men, and that old brake techology isn’t worth upgrading because of the cost to rail car ri-ers.

Federal agencies under this president’s control haven’t required carriers to take enforceable measures to provide personal protective equipment (PPE) to transportation workers. They are giving free rein for companies to try to automate transportation jobs out of existence. Members have expressed their anger at the fumbling response of federal agencies to protect workers during a pandemic. They’ve expressed outrage over the disregard for safety procedures being exhibited by some of those same federal agencies. They have told General President Joe Sellers, the SMART-TD National Legislative Department’s SMART General Executive Council and other SMART Transportation Division leaders that they have seen enough.

That is why we’ve endorsed presumptive Democratic nominee Joe Biden for president in November. In a video message to all SMART members, the former vice president pledged “to never let us down,” promised to support efforts at strengthening labor and foresees a second American railroad revolution. In one three-minute-long video, Biden’s message provides a welcome and steady contrast to the pointed, angry and burning reactions we’ve observed from White House leadership staggering its way through crisis after crisis and governing in 140 characters per tweet.

The video is a good sign that the Biden campaign is on the right track to understanding our needs. More constructive back-and-forth between your union’s leadership and the Biden camp will follow. Your voice will be heard by the former vice president and not be met by the stony silence a CEO in his plush office reserves for those he deems nonessential.

The pandemic has brought out the best in our members while in some other people, we’ve seen less-than-favorable traits exposed. Changes we had sought to keep transportation workers and the users of buses, passenger rail and public transit safe from infection did not come without resistance, but that is to be expected when people in power see workers trying to provide for themselves and their loved ones as “human capital stock.”

COVID-19 has been a source of great disruption through every aspect of life in our nation and the entire world since March. We’ve seen thousands of people brought, including SMART Transportation Division members, and economic devastation. We’ve seen millions of jobs lost and continued political division over how the coronavirus has been handled on a state-by-state basis.

The process of readjusting our lives, our union and our industry to going to be ongoing. The way we do things has changed and will alter.

Members are encouraged to follow the safety guidelines put forth by the CDC, and state and local health authorities as we collectively take those tentative steps toward a rebound from the shock of this global crisis.

It’s no secret that the transportation industry has been staggered by COVID-19. Service in many areas was told to a halt amid a severely curtailed. Fundamental changes were made in bus service on our properties, and we’ve had operators quarantined from coast to coast. Transit was reduced to a shell of its former self in metropolises as ridership plummeted. Freight traffic, already lower before the pandemic hit, fell by more than 20 percent.

Yet through this downturn, our SMART-TD members still showed up. We were essential as the pandemic began.

We remained essential as COVID-19 spread. We will continue to be essential whenever the plateau is reached and the coronavirus begins to decline in the U.S.

We will stay essential throughout. We will all be essential in November. I wrote in the last edition of the TD News the following:

“Now more than ever, I am honored and humbled to serve as your President. I have an immense sense of pride and respect for all of you who continue to place yourselves in harm’s way, doing what many are not capable of doing.

This remains unchanged. Brothers and sisters, there’s work to be done as we contin-uwe to make our way through the pandemic and other upheavals. We need to get the Moving Forward bill passed. If it does not pass, then we need to hold those who are against us and our continued safety and well-beings accountable on Election Day so that those needs are met in the near future.

We will not be deterred from achieving what others before us and what we ourselves have fought for — now or in the coming months. In solidarity,

President,
Transportation Division

SLD Stu Gardner retires

COLUMBUS, Ohio – As all great stories must come to an end, on May 1, Stuart Gardner retired from his position as Director and Chairman of the Ohio State Legislative Board. Brother Gardner wrapped up his 46-year railroad career by handing the reins of State Legislative Director over to longtime Assistant Director Clyde Allen Whittaker.

Stu was born and raised in Cleveland, Ohio. From a young age, he valued the vision of solidarity, gaining those roots by becoming an Eagle Scout in 1969. He enlisted as a Seaman’s Apprentice for the United States Navy in 1972 and served on the Fast Combat

Support Ship USS Detroit from 1973 to Qualy pulls the pin

Longtime Minnesota State Legislative Director Phillip Qualy retired May 3.

“All mainline switches lined back, and I can see the Yard Limit Board,” he said with a grin on his face as he prepared for his departure.

Phil hired out on the Chicago & North Western in July 1969 and held numerous positions over the years leading up to his election as Minnesota State Legislative Director in 2004.

Some people slow down as they approach retirement and slide out the front door. Not Phil. He worked with a passion and purpose even into the wee hours of the morning on June 1, sending emails all night while Minneapolis was locked down under curfew and literally burning.

His advice to incoming Minnesota State Legislative Director Nick Katch

Qualy was simple yet profound.

“You gotta stay united. Keep the bills that are most important, you gotta stay UNIFIED!”

Louisiana

Louisiana State Legislative Director Chris Christianson reports that legislators in his state have introduced a two-person crew bill – HB-776 – in the state House of Representatives and that the bill has been advanced for consideration by the House Transportation and Infrastructure committee.

The bill, as currently written, requires two persons on all freight trains with the exception of hostler service or utility employees.

The bill also provides for penalties if carriers choose to violate the bill after it becomes law. For a first offense, carriers will be charged a minimum of $500, but not more than $1,000. A second offense increases the minimum to $1,000, but not more than $5,000 when the second offense is committed within a three-year period. For three or more violations, the bill provides for a minimum penalty of $5,000, but not more than $10,000 per offense within a three-year period.

The COVID-19 pandemic has made the timeline for the bill’s consideration unclear, but the State Legislative Board will reach out to members for mobilization.

“We have a tough road ahead of us getting it passed with everything that is going on with COVID-19, but we are not going to give up,” Christianson said. “Right now, getting it moving in the Legislature will depend on how much time we have when the Legislature reconvenes.”

Kansas

State Legislative Director Ty Dragoo met with legislative members of the Kansas House and Senate for a “State of Rail” meeting at the Kansas State House and briefed them on concerns related to our membership.

“The legislators were very involved in the discussion and had some great questions,” Dragoo said. “We fully expect that legislators in Kansas know our issues.”

Prior to the pandemic, representatives of the Kansas State Legislative Board attended the annual Washington Days where Gov. Laura Kelly and representatives from the board continue to work closely with Kelly and Senate Minority Leader Anthony Hensley. Dragoo also has been serving on the Kansas Economic reopening committee selected by Kelly, who says reopening the state from the pandemic will be gradual and not as simple as “flipping a switch.”

Washington, D.C.

The Washington D.C. Legislative Board’s reorganizational meeting was held at the SMART office in Washington, D.C., with General President Joseph Sellers, Jr., and members of the National Legislative Office, including Alternate National Legislative Director Jared Cassity, in attendance.

John Horvath, aide to TD President, retires

“John is a brilliant person and working with him was a valuable experience. I was truly fortunate to have someone so knowledgeable to learn from,” said Ralph Leitcher, an administrative assistant in the President’s Department who worked alongside Horvath. “He truly cares about our members and set high standards for the support we provide. I look forward to continuing our friendship, and I wish him a retirement as gratifying as his years here at SMART.”

“I am very fortunate to have had the opportunity to learn from John, and I am honored to have worked alongside him for the last five years,” said Administrative Assistant Jeff Brandom. “His passion for the union labor movement and his dedication to our members is absolute, and I am certain that many of our members will agree when I say we owe John a debt of gratitude for imparting some of his knowledge to us. It’s going to be quite an adjustment not having him in the office every day.”

In retirement, Horvath said he has no immediate plans other than to spend time with his wife of 37 years, Cheryl, and to continue to play guitar as long as his health allows — he’s been known to gig around the Cleveland area on occasion.

The SMART Transportation Division wishes John the very best and a long, happy and healthy retirement.

Federal Railroad Administration extends waivers

The waiver extension, granted nine days after the AAR’s petition to renew, cover regulations governing: Periodic track inspections, Training, Quick tie-ups, Locomotive and conductor certification, and Territorial qualifications.

Conversely, SMART-TD and the BLET jointly petitioned FRA to respond to the pandemic multiple times in March seeking emergency orders to improve working conditions and to better protect workers from potential infection by requiring carriers to adhere to basic CDC protocols.

The agency, however, declined to put its full regulatory power on the side of protecting essential transportation workers. The continued pattern of rubber-stamping requests by carriers while unabashedly coming up short for the essential workers who have continued to work through the pandemic shows where FRA’s priorities are, the union presidents said.

engineer for the Nickel Plate Road working Cleveland to points east and west. Stu’s rail-road career began in April 1974 when he hired out of Bellevue as a brakeman for the Norfolk and Western Railway. He soon advanced to road conductor in 1979 and finally locomotive engi-neer in 1992.

Brother Gardner has been a member of Local 225 in Bellevue from his first day on the job. Always an active member, he ran for legislative representative in 1991 and joined the Ohio State Legislative Executive Board in 1996. In 2012, Stu was selected SLD and chairman and took a leave of absence to work full-time, making sure that the interests and concerns of the members were heard.

As director, Brother Gardner became a well-known face at the State House. From reaching across the aisle to better our jobs in both safety and job pro-tection itself, he has given count-less hours serving the member-ship behind the scenes as well as giving testimony for Ohio’s House Bill 186, ensuring two-person crews.

To honor his valuable service, an award was designed by state board members and created by Sheet Metal Local 24 in Colum-bus. This one-of-a-kind award was given to him on his last day to show our gratitude for his unwavering loyalty to union members. The board thanks Jeff Rush and the members of Local 24 for making this a reality.

Stu is not only leaving a lega-cy, but a standard that the Board plans to keep on track and move forward with a vision of solidarity and “Progress Through Unity.”

Though we stated that all great stories must come to an end, Stu’s new chapter is just begin-nning. He and his wife Cheryl have two daughters, one son and two granddaughters to share many more years of great memories.

Highball and happy retirement Stu!

Legislative Board was proud to pres-ent Brother Qualy with a brass lantern honoring his work and leader-ship.

“Phil has been an exceptional men-tor, brother, and friend,” said Katich, “We will all have stories to share for years to come of that time Phil…”

Qualy, who sent his last email at 3 a.m. on what was supposed to be his first day of retirement had this to say to his union brothers and sisters:

“Thanks to each and every UTU-SMART-TD member, bar none, for your support over the past four terms,” he wrote. “It has been a privi-lege to serve and pleasure to work with all of you.”

Thank you, Brother Qualy, for your years of dedicated service!

Vice GC to NS boss: If we’re ‘essential,’ then you should treat us accordingly!

The CEO of Norfolk South-ern James A. Squires, asked employees for feedback con-cerning the carrier’s respon-siveness to the COVID-19 pan-demic. SMART Transportation Division has been gathering reports about how carriers are complying during the outbreak of coronavirus. As one of those employees who has been deemed “essential,” SMART- TD Vice General Chairperson Robert M. Levkulich (GCA- 898) sent the following email to NS’s top boss to express his opinion, which is reproduced here with Brother Levkulich’s permission:

Mr. Squires, as the outside world continues to spiral out of control, it feels as if it’s just another day along the railroad. As Transportation employees, we read daily updates that Nor-folk Southern has taken to pro-tect its office workers, in Atlanta and Norfolk, but in yard offices around the system, it’s busi-ness as usual.

For conductors and engi-neers operating across Norfolk Southern, we have been cate-gorized as an essential part of our nation’s infrastructure, and essential in the fight against Covid-19. Since conductors and engineers are deemed essential, then so should our safety and well-being.

Norfolk Southern used to pri-ORate the safety of its employ-ees, but recently the only priority has been to get to a 60 OR. I have visited numerous yard offices, and I’ve seen a lot of things that impressed me. But these were from individuals. I saw a conductor who brought masks his wife and kids had sewn in for his fellow crew members. I saw an engineer carrying in bottles of home made hand sanitizer to distrib-ute in the yard office. And finally I saw a Road Manager that was carrying in an arm full of sanitizer that he used his own money to pay for. These indi-viduals taking care of each oth-er are inspiring stories but are void of Norfolk Southern.

Companies across this nation are stepping up to show their employees they care. As Trans- portation employees we have seen drastic financial loss due to the “chase for a 60 OR” and now with COVID-19 and clos-ures, we have taken another hit.

Ally Financial took unprece-dented steps to show its 8700 employees they care. As Trans-portation employees we have been covered unexpected costs related to working from home. Ally added 100% coverage for diagnostic testing and the associated visit related to COVID-19.

Immediate paid medical leave for any employee diagnosed with COVID-19. Expanded childcare support: When daycare or adult/elder care arrangements are disrupt-ed, Ally will cover 30 uses of emergency care.

Employees with monthly or quarterly incentive plans were assured that Ally would account for COVID-19 impacts to opera-tions.

Access to free mental health professionals, via phone or text, through the Employee Assistance Program. 100% coverage for virtual doctor visits and online health care services.

Paid caregiver leave for employees caring for an ill fam-ily member.

Well-being modules and chal-lenges geared to staying physi-cally and mentally healthy at home.

These are great examples of what a company can do to pro-ect its employees.

So, Mr. Squires, my question is, What will Norfolk Southern do for its most valuable, and essential employees?

the risk of the pandemic persisting for some time, it is imperative you prepare yourself ahead of an election that represents a clear priority has been to get to a 60 OR. I have visited numerous yard offices, and I’ve seen a lot of things that impressed me. But these were from individuals. I saw a conductor who brought masks his wife and kids had sewn in for his fellow crew members. I saw an engineer carrying in bottles of home made hand sanitizer to distrib-ute in the yard office. And finally I saw a Road Manager that was carrying in an arm full of sanitizer that he used his own money to pay for. These indi-viduals taking care of each oth-er are inspiring stories but are void of Norfolk Southern.

Companies across this nation are stepping up to show their employees they care. As Trans- portation employees we have seen drastic financial loss due to the “chase for a 60 OR” and now with COVID-19 and clos-ures, we have taken another hit.

Ally Financial took unprece-dented steps to show its 8700 employees they care. As Trans-portation employees we have been covered unexpected costs related to working from home. Ally added 100% coverage for diagnostic testing and the associated visit related to COVID-19.

Immediate paid medical leave for any employee diagnosed with COVID-19. Expanded childcare support: When daycare or adult/elder care arrangements are disrupt-ed, Ally will cover 30 uses of emergency care.

Employees with monthly or quarterly incentive plans were assured that Ally would account for COVID-19 impacts to opera-tions.

We’re looking for photo submissions from SMART TD members and alumni of buses, light rail, planes or trains for the 2021 calendar. Email your high-resolution horizontal photos to news_TD@smart-union.org or mail hard copies to the TD’s office along with details about what’s going on in the photo. If your pic is picked, you get copies of the alumni calendar to share.

The deadline is Sept. 18!

When taking photos, be sure to observe all rules and regulations regarding photography on your property.

Take a shot to get in the calendar!

Get the hell up and let’s go!

I want to know who to blame. Really, whose fault is this? Are we really at the point where the carriers think getting rid of the conductor is a smart move?

We all know about the two-person crews; they have never shown one scrap of integrity in their dealings with employees. We are talking about organizations that routinely deny legitimate claims for negotiated compensation because they may save a buck by screwing some employee out of it.

They have sold out to Wall Street in their pursuit of the almighty dollar. But that is no surprise; they have been doing this since they started, and we have heard them talking for more than 20 years about wanting a one-person crew. We expect nothing from them and get exactly that.

So who then? It must be the Union. All those big shots in Cleveland wearing suits and forgetting where they came from. Always telling me that the big bad wolf is coming for my job. It hasn’t happened yet, so who should I believe them now? Surely they are just trying to justify their jobs. For the entire time I have worked out here there has always been some perceived threat to my job. So here they come again, telling me this is it, this is the time it’s for real? Why should I believe this is real and not just another attempt to get more of my hard-earned money for PAC?

But maybe, just maybe this time they are right. I better look for somebody else. Corporate America, the stock market, the greedy SOBs of Wall Street. The same people who literally laugh out loud when we try to talk safety on the rails in the form of a two-person crew, the same greedy SOBs who cry about how much we make and then pay Hunter Harrison more than $100 million. How about PSR? That must be it. No probably not. It is just another facade designed to put immediate money into investors’ pockets. Anyone with half a brain realizes that railroads are not that kind of long-term growth item and must expand their customer base to truly grow. Got it! Politicians! They are to blame for everything, right? Really if you can’t somehow blame a politician for your lot in life, then you aren’t really trying. They have been trying to get a two-person crew bill off the ground for years with minimal success. After all it was a president who appointed the FRA head who said we don’t need a two-person crew. It was a politically appointed judge who said we must bargain on crew consists. Is it the politicians?

Or maybe, just maybe, it’s that person looking back at me from the mirror. The one who can’t be bothered to go to a local union meeting. The one who is more concerned with taking a stand on the mountaintop over conservatives vs. liberals than they are in supporting candidates who would support them having a job and a retirement program. The person who constantly complains, but never shows up. The member who won’t contribute to PAC because 20 years ago somebody did something that annoyed them, but now they can’t remember what it was. It is us. We are who needs to be blamed.

We have known this was coming for years, yet we have blissfully continued down the path of apathy on our way to the real possibility of not having a job or a meaningful pension in the future.

We ignored all the people who told us what was coming and just kept shoving money in our pockets while nodding our heads thinking, what do they know? Many of us even voted for the people who appointed the FRA head and the judge who ruled against us.

What the hell were we thinking? How do we sit — at the 11th hour — saying what? Why didn’t somebody tell me? What are you going to do about saving my job? I paid my dues! Guess what? It doesn’t have to end like this.

We can rewrite this chapter of rail history. We need to get off our collective butts and get out there and make things happen.

Take the time to talk to family, friends and neighbors.

Write a letter to your representatives, write letters to your senators.

Call them and show up at their events and ask them why they haven’t signed on to the two-person-crew bill. Ask them why they feel it is OK to put their constituents’ safety at risk for railroad profits.

Go see your local Legislative Representative and sign up for PAC. If your job isn’t worth a dollar a day in PAC, then just quit now and walk away. Money talks in this political world, and we need to make it work for us.

Get out and vote! Vote for the people who support the union and its members. Endorsements will be announced. We can either give up and let the carriers “railroad” us or we can fight. I say we fight, but it takes all of us working together as a true union. Don’t rely on just a few to do your fighting.

If you want a job and a pension and a safe work environment, then get the hell up and let them know you are not going to go quietly.

What are you waiting for?

Members of Local 23 in Santa Cruz, Calif., mourned the April 14th passing of Domingo Tovar, a SMART-TD Division retiree from COVID-19.

Domingo Tovar, 58, served two stints with Santa Cruz Metro as a bus operator starting in 1982, then leaving for another carrier before returning to Santa Cruz in 1987. He was involved in the initial contract talks with the carrier as well as a 37-day strike in 2010.

He served a year as secretary and treasurer for Local 23.

“He had many friends. He was a happy person,” said retired Local 23 member Serena Tovar, Brother Tovar’s wife of more than 43 years and a 30-year SMART-TD member.

“Domingo remained the same type of person the day she met him to the day he passed. He was always happy. He just lived life and had no regrets. He was very proud of his kids and was always there for his family.”

Brother Tovar retired in 2016 after 29 years of continuous union service.

Transportation was in his blood, though — he had begun driving at age 25, had driven charter buses and had even obtained his pilot’s license. After his Santa Cruz Metro retirement, he kept working as a shuttle bus driver for the University of California — Santa Cruz until his passing.

He was remembered fondly by Local 23 brother Mario Espinoza.

“I could confide in Domingo about any issue and I knew that what we talked about always stayed between him and me,” said Espinoza, who worked alongside Brother Tovar for years. “Domingo was someone you could trust.”

Brother Espinoza said that he and Brother Tovar’s families became close over the years as they continued to work together and that Domingo was generous with his time and his technical expertise that bailed out coworkers many times.

“He was very helpful with a number of drivers that had problems with their computers, phones or any electronic device. He would solve the issue in no time or give you advice on resolving the issue,” Espinoza said. “He never wanted anything in return. His satisfaction was you being happy your problem was solved.

“He was just beginning to enjoy his retirement when this virus took his life. I am still in shock and can’t comprehend this and will take some time to cope with this,” Espinoza said. “So with a heavy heart I say, Domingo, you will be missed. Rest in peace, brother.”

In addition to Serena, Brother Tovar is survived by a daughter, Mandy; son, Damien; and two grandchildren — Damien and Sasha Tovar Page.

Brother Rameliah “Rene” Jennings of SMART-TD Local 1589 (New Brunswick, N.J.), died April 22 at age 74.

He spent much of his career with United Parcel Service (UPS). After he retired, in 2007 he tapped into his love for driving and worked part-time with Suburban Bus Company (Coach USA).

In typical “Rene” fashion, he bonded with the staff at the company and was well admired and loved. He joined the union in 2011. An ordained minister and associate pastor at First Park Baptist Church in Plantfield, N.J., Brother Jennings was a globetrotter and constantly on the go.

He had the opportunity to travel to Europe, Asia, Africa and the Caribbean.

He was also an avid sports fan and was passionate about his golf game.

The Rev. Jennings leaves his wife of 35 years, Dorothy, his children, sisters and many nieces, nephews, and friends to cherish fond memories.

Jory J. Bohanan, of SMART-TD Local 1607 (Los Angeles, Calif.), died March 29, 2020, at age 39.

A member of the union since 2007, he had previously worked for L.A. Metro and had only worked a couple of months for MV Transportation, which contracts with Santa Clarita Transit.

“His dedication to his work and strong union activism are the reasons why he was appreciated by his coworkers,” said General Chairperson Bernard Norwood. “Stephen was a very particular lot of a guy.”

Using money out of his own pocket, Brother McFadden donated to the local’s annual holiday party without fail, Norwood said.

McFadden was a very passionate Phillies fan — sometimes catching part of the game during the down time he had during a shift and filling in his union brothers and sisters on what was going on — and making sure the game was on the TV in the crew room. He also was a very particular lottery player, shopping people to scratch from the bottom up and letting them know the range of numbers they should snap when considering a scratch-off ticket purchase.

Another tradition he was known for was on pay weeks — when the system processed the payroll and employees knew they were going to get their deposits, he’d greet his brothers and sisters with a cheery “Happy Wednesday!”

“That’s going to be missed a lot, especially today,” Norwood said. (He was interviewed on May 6 — a Wednesday morning.)

Remembering Brother Hansen

COVID-19 has not only Hansen’s 20 years of service was exemplary. He was the consummate professional, a loving husband, father and grandfather,” said General Chairperson Jerome Johnson (GCA-610), who is president of Local 60. “He will be greatly missed.”

Brother Hansen is survived by his wife, Denise; a son, Brian, who is a mechanic at Raritan Yard; and his grandchildren.

Brother Hill

19 on April 14th. “Brother Hill was a great member that was no nonsense and always had a smile on his face,” General Chairperson Bernard Norwood said. “He really enjoyed being with his co-workers, attending football games for the Philadelphia Eagles and playing cards. Brother Hill will surely be missed.”

General Chairperson Norwood was also thankful for the assistance of UTUIA Field Supervisor Chris Malley, who ensured the fraternal UTUIA life insurance benefits Brother Hill had were handled quickly.

The union extends its sincere condolences to the families, friends and locals of these victims of the COVID-19 pandemic as well as to those of member Donnie Carson (Local 1908, Buffalo, N.Y.) and retiree Kenneth K. Skoog (Local 1177), who also passed away from the virus.

MEMORIES MADE ON THE MOVE

Robert and Margaret White, who met another on the train.

Member Robert “Bob” H. White passed away on April 24, 2020, reports his daughter, Jan Renga. Brother White was a member of Local 60 in Newark, N.J., and worked for Erie, Erie Lackawanna, Conrail and New Jersey Transit during his 41-year rail career.

He started working on the railroad in 1946 and had many train stories, his daughter said. But his favorite one to tell to Jan was this:

“Well, I met your mother on the train. The rule was that we had to turn in anything that was left on the train to the lost and found.”

“After 30 days, if it went unclaimed, he would get it back. (That explains the plethora of umbrellas in the house.) Now ... if we found strawberries or something perishable, we could take that home. “Your mother was perishable, so I took her home.”

And the rest was history, Jan said.

Retired Local 1532 legislative rep passes away

William “Bill” J. DeBaun, a retiree from SMART Transportation Division Local 1532 and a former vice chairperson and legislative representative for the Kansas City, Kan., local, passed away in late April.

Brother DeBaun was 73 years old.

A yardman out of Argentine Yard in Kansas City, in addition to his service to Local 1532’s membership, Brother DeBaun also worked as a new hire training coordinator, helping those workers just starting out on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway/BNSF. Many of those he had trained later asked about how Brother DeBaun and his wife of 34 years, Carol, were doing after his retirement from the railroad in 2005.

His work as vice local chairperson was “invaluable” to the members of LCA 1532, said SMART-TD.

"Bill spent countless hours researching and processing time claims on behalf of the membership. Much of that work was done on his accord, without the members having to spend a second of their own time writing up the claim(s), while Bill sacrificed countless hours each month of his own time securing monies on their behalf," Lopez said. "Bill was also an effective legislative represent-ative for Local 1532. Bill’s efforts at taking on the carrier for safety violations were very effective."

Lopez said that as a local chairperson, he and his pre-decessor, Doug Schlosser, benefited greatly from DeBaun’s impeccable organizational skills, as did the members who had their claims paid out.

"I believe I can safely speak on behalf of both of us when I say that both of us were extremely lucky to have worked with Bill. During our many years of working together, on the second Wednesday of every month, Bill and I would attend our regularly scheduled claims conference with local management and at the onset of each of those conferences Bill would hand me a large stack of claim dockets neatly organized and with an abundance of supporting doc-umentation, which more often than not, led to a successful conference," Lopez said. "The quality of Bill’s work as both a local chairperson and legislative representative has been unmatched and likely never will be. Bill made me a better local chairperson."

Brother DeBaun was a vet-eran of the U.S. Navy. He is survived by his wife, Carol, nephews John & Shawn Strange and a num-ber of other relatives.

SMART Transportation Division offers its sincere con-dolences to his family, his Local 1532 union brothers and sisters and all who knew Brother DeBaun.

"We had to do some-thing," Martinez said. "We just did it quick."

With an end to the pan-demic nowhere in sight, she thanked and gave com-pliments to Costa and Guardado’s rapid response and actions to keep the members safe at work. Local 1895 (Chicago – NS) Secretary & Treasurer Larry Grutzius also reports that his local has partnered with Mid-Oak Distillery to get hand sanitizer for mem-bers. They also placed an order for the Illinois State Legislative Board. According to Grutzius, the Mid-Oak Distillery was founded by two union members. "They were doing what they could with limited sup-ples, but also happy to help us during this pandem-ic," Grutzius said. "We worked with them on the line to help get us the much-needed hand sanitiz-er."

To let us know about your efforts to keep safe, email news_td@smart-union.org.

Union wins arbitration case over Local 1715 retiree’s vacation time

An arbitration heard in January by the Federal Mediation and Councilor’s Service (FMCS) ruled in favor of Local 1715 (Char-lotte, N.C.) retiree Gloria Chambers in May. Bus Department Vice President Alvy Hughes said Transit Management of Charlotte (TOMC) attempted to change vacation accruals for bus operators from past practice, resulting the potential of a retiree being shorted his or her full vacation time. The arbitrator’s findings awarded the union in the decision.

In addition to Hughes and Chambers, Local 1715 (Charlotte, N.C.) Vice President Brenda Moore also participated in the successful-ness case.

One valuable benefit provided to Transportation Division members is the Discipline Income Protection Pro-ger, or DIPP. DIPP provides payments for a specific amount and period of time to an employee who is suspended, dismissed or removed from service by a carrier for alleged violation of rules or operating procedures, provided that the violations do not come within the list of exceptions not covered by the program.

The DIPP aids in meeting members’ day-to-day needs when earnings are halted. Participants choose the level of benefits they want, from $6 to $200 per day. The term of benefits depends on the length of time the participant is enrolled and extends from 200 days to a maximum of 365 days.

Monthly assessments are paid through dues check-off and all SMART-TD members may enroll voluntarily. The DIPP is a pooled-risk fund whose financial survival depends on a broad base of participants making contributions so that benefits are available for payment. In fact, the DIPP is the essence of brother and sister helping brother and sister. Participation is pro-	ection for you and your union brother or sister.

To participate, members should contact their field supervisor or DIPP representative. More information also is available at www.smart-union.org/ td/dipp/ and you may also download a membership application from that page. The DIPP is available only to SMART-TD members and is unique in that it has remained steadfast in looking for ways to pay claims of participants, while other plans are known to look for ways to avoid paying claims.

In recent years, the DIPP’s value to members has soared as many carriers continue to accelerate the discipline they impose in efforts to cut their costs and further reduce their work-forces.

To better ensure the DIPP is meeting members’ expectations, we want to hear from those who participate. If you have been disappointed in any way with the program, we want to know about it so we can improve the plan.

Constructive criticism will help us improve our performance and to serve members better. By the same token, excellence should be rewarded. If you have enjoyed outstanding service through the efforts of a local officer or if you personally know of some exceptional service by an officer, please let us know so that individual may be commended.

We want the DIPP to continue to protect members from payless paydays during a difficult time.

To provide constructive criticism or commend an officer for their efforts in helping you collect benefits, communicate those thoughts to us by email at DIPP_TD@smart-

What if?...

What if you could find an insurance company that:

- Pays the membership back rather than paying stockholders and greedy CEOs
- Provided over 200 college scholarships yearly to the children and grandchildren of members
- Provided up to 100 Trade School scholarships to help build America’s skilled labor force
- Provided Memorial Scholarships to the children of its members who were killed while performing the duties of their trade
- Had benefits designed to meet the unique needs of Union Trade Workers and their families
- Had highly affordable plans and flexible payment options
- Gave thousands of hours of volunteer work and matched member donations for charities in the communities they serve
- Financially Supported Disaster relief to assist Union members and their families in dire times of need
- Paid claims in days, not months
- Was established over 150 years ago by Trade workers like yourself

What if I told you that UTUIA is that insurance company and as a Union member, you had access to some of the best benefits available today?
